

CHILD DEVELOPMENT / CHILD PSYCHOLOGY
College Credit and Careers Network
Dual Credit Articulation Agreement

Upon completion of high school courses equivalent to the following competencies:

- Know the major developmental theorists and their contributions to understanding children's development.
 - Apply concepts of child development to different developmental events across ages.
 - Apply developmental norms to guide, teach, and assess children's development.
 - Understand age-level child behavior expectations.
 - Use observations to identify physical, cognitive, emotional, social developmental characteristics.
 - Understand the implications of culture and human diversity on the development of children.
 - Demonstrate the ability to apply child development knowledge by incorporating developmentally appropriate activities and expectations into the early childhood environment.
 - Communicate basic child development information to parents and co-workers.
 - Discuss how multiple learning styles can influence workplace communication.
-

A student earning a "B" or better may earn college credit at the following college:

College	Course	Credits
Bellevue College	EDUC&114	5
Lake Washington Technical College	ECEM 112	6